Bibliografía

[1] J. J. Sakurai. Modern Quantum Mechanics. Addison-Wesley Publishing Company, 1994.

[2] Peter W. Milonni. The Quantum Vacuum. An introduction to Quantum Electrodynamics. Academic Press, Los Alamos, New Mexico, 1994.

[3] H.B.G. Casimir. On the attraction between two perfectly conducting plates. Proc. Kon. Ned. Akad. Wet, 51:793–795, 1948.

[4] S. Hawking. Zeta function regularization of path integrals in curved spacetimes. Commun. Math. Phys., pages 133–148, 1977.

[5] E.Elizalde and A. Romeo. Essentias of the casimir effect and its computation. page 711, 199.

[6] M.J.Sparnaay. Measurement of attactive forces between flat plates. Physica, 751–764.

[7] W. Luis Mochán, C. Villareal, and R. Esquivel-Sirvent. On casimir forces for media with arbitrary dielectric properties. page 339.

[8] W. Luis Mochán, R. Esquivel-Sirvent, and C. Villareal. "Fuerzas de dispersión entre materiales arbitrarios", Memorias de la X Escuela de Verano de Física La visión molecular de la materia. R. Jauregui and J. Recamier, University of Mexico, 2002.

[9] J. D. Jackson. Classical Electrodynamics. Wiley, New York, 1975.

[10] Edward M. Purcell. Electricity and Magnetism, Vol 2 of Berkely Physics Course. Mc Graw Hill, New York.

[11] Neil W. Ashcroft and N. David Mermin. Solid State Physics. Hot-Saunders International Editions, 1976.

[12] P. Halevi. Spatial Dispersion in solids and Plasmas. 1992.

[13] F. Forstmann and H. Stenschke. Electrodynamics at metal boundaries with inclusion of plasma waves, 1977.

[14] I. Lindau and P.O.Nilsson. Experimental evidence for excitation of longitudinal plasmons by photons, 1970.

[15] M. Anderegg, B. Feurbacher, and B. Fitton. Optically excited longitudinal plasmons in potassium. Phys. Rev. Lett., pages 1565–1568, 1971.

[16] K. J. Krane and H. Raether. Measurement of surface plasmon dispersion in aluminum and indium.

[17] W. L. Schaich. Hydrodynamic theory of density-response functions at a metal surface, 1985.

[18] M. R. Parker A. D. Boardman. A hydrodynamic model of the optical generation of bulk plasma waves. Phys. Stat. Sol, page 329, 1975.

[19] C. Schwartz and W. L. Schaich. Hydrodynamic models of surface plasmons. Physical Review B, pages 7008–7011.

[20] Yu. A. Ilínskii and L.V. Keldysh. Electromagnetic Response of Material Media. Plenum Press, New York, 1994.

[21] M. Brèdov. Electrodinámica Clásica. MIR, 1985.

[22] Marcelo del Castillo-Mussot and Luis Mochán. Note on hydrodynamic models of spatially dispersive conductor boundaries. Solid State Communications, page 555, 1987.