Restaurant Description

The cascading waterfall at the entrance to Rex Rotisserie & Grill welcomes guests to a delectable dining experience in a sophisticated, yet relaxed atmosphere. Be it for the bustling ambience of the power lunch, after-work cocktails or a romantic dinner, guests flock to the 100-seat grill.

Located in the heart of Vancouver, at the Bentall Centre, the Rex is within walking distance to most major downtown hotels. The location is ideal for the business traveller looking for something special as well as leisure travellers interested in being close to the action. (Rex is near many of Vancouver's tourist attractions).

Although famous for the 28-day-aged "AAA" Alberta Prime Rib, Partner and Executive Chef Terry Multhauf has created a menu that epitomizes a classic American Grill. "This term crosses many styles from American, to Italian, Asian and French. With each turn of our menu, we like to touch on all of these influences," he says. From Free Run Chicken, Wild West Coast Salmon, fresh Ahi Tuna and nothing but "AAA" Alberta Beef for his steaks, Chef Multhauf produces a menu that appeals to most everyone. Breads are baked fresh daily and the sweets are also made in-house

A French rotisserie imported from Paris provides tantalizing aromas as well as a division between the cozy lounge with its dark cherry wood bar and the sunken dining room with views of the waterfall through rich velvet curtains. The 50-seat outdoor patio provides a vibrant escape in the summer months.

The wine selection at the Rex perfectly reflects the American Grill. "We try to offer a nice range of wines—for the value conscious as well as high-end vintages from great producers for someone who is entertaining and wants to do it up right," says Milhailides.

Indeed a downtown oasis in a hurry-up world.
