

1. Introduction	5
2. Volkswagen Group	6
2.1 Area of Work: Global Sourcing	10
2..1.1 Work inside Global Sourcing	15
3. Selection of a problem as Integration Project	17
3.1 Problem	17
3.2 Symptoms	18
3.3 Causes	18
3.4 Evaluation of Global Sourcing processes	18
3.5 Consequences	20
4. Theoretical Background	21
4.1 Knowledge Transfer	21
4.1.1 Types of knowledge and attributes	23
4.1.2 Knowledge Transfer Model	23
4.1.3 Relationships importance in Knowledge Transfer	26
4.1.4 Knowledge Renewal Process	29
4.1.5 Importance of Knowledge Awareness	29
4.1.6 Knowledge Transfer Obstacles	30
4.2 Organization Structure	31
4.2.1 Definition and elements within an Organization	31
4.2.2 Control Systems inside an Organization	36
4.2.3 Power behind a Control System	37
4.2.4 Organizations and Control Systems working together

5. Possible Solutions

5.1 Solution #1: Knowledge transfer model for Global Sourcing based on Service dominant logic. 41

5.2 Solution #2- Knowledge Renewal Model for Global Sourcing based on Service dominant logic 49

5.3 Solution # 3- Apply Control System to Control current knowledge flow. 54

6. Conclusion, limitation and future 61

7. Bibliography 63

8. Annex: Surveys 65

Figures Index

1. VWM Organization chart	8
2. Purchasing: Region NAR Department's organization chart	10
3. Steps to open a process in Global Sourcing	13
4. Fishbone	17
5. Knowledge Transfer Process	24
6. Inter - Functional Exchange	26
7. Network Exchange	27
8. Organization Elements	32
9. Service – Oriented organizational structure	36
10. Knowledge transfer model for Global Sourcing based on Service dominant logic.

11. Knowledge Renewal Model for Global Sourcing based on Service dominant logic