Thank you Stan,

I probably will use pic 24. My thesis is being written in spanish but I think I will write a short version in English soon, and of course I will send it to you.

Ernesto,

I give you my permission to use figures that I created and used in my thesis with proper acknowledgements. My thesis can be downloaded from here: <http://ir.library.oregonstate.edu/xmlui/handle/1957/2824>. Figures that I created myself are: 5, 7, 8, 10, 11-21 and 23-26. Let me know if you need a better quality pictures of any of them. I would be interested in reading your final version of the thesis to get to know your work.

Regards,
Stanislav

Ernesto,

The rights to the images published in "Weight-proportional Space Partitioning Using Adaptive Voronoi Diagrams" (GeoInformatica (2007)), are owned by the journal's publisher (Springer). You'll have to ask them for permission to re-use them in your thesis.

As far as Stanislav's thesis is concerned, I believe that Stanislav holds the rights to that (excluding, of course, any materials included which were not his to start with).

I hope that helps.

Dear Rene, Stanislav and Eric

Let me introduce myself, I am Ernesto Gutierrez, a mexican student of Computer Science in Universidad de las Americas Puebla.

I am currently working on my master thesis project in-titled "Information Visualization for Collection Understanding using Voronoi regions on top of GHSOM"

In my chapter 2, I am doing a revision of related work. And therefore, I would like to have your permission to use a image of your paper in-titled "Weight-proportional Space Partitioning Using Adaptive Voronoi Diagrams" and include it as related work (image will be only used in my thesis document not for sale).

I would appreciate your positive answer and reply to this email,

Best regards

Ernesto

Normally, as long as you do not include it in a publication for sale, it is considered OK.

Dear Ernesto,

So, from our side it is completely fine, if you use the figures. Actually the copyright belongs to IEEE, but as we found out, this is also not a problem for you (see text below). So, good luck with your thesis, and if you feel so, I would be interested in reading it when finished.

Best,
Hendrik

IEEE quote:

Thesis / Dissertation Reuse

The IEEE does not require individuals working on a thesis to obtain a formal reuse license, however, you may print out this statement to be used as a permission grant:

Requirements to be followed when using any portion (e.g., figure, graph, table, or textual material) of an IEEE copyrighted paper in a thesis:

- 1) In the case of textual material (e.g., using short quotes or referring to the work within these papers) users must give full credit to the original source (author, paper, publication) followed by the IEEE copyright line © 2011 IEEE.
- 2) In the case of illustrations or tabular material, we require that the copyright line © [Year of original publication] IEEE appear prominently with each reprinted figure and/or table.
- 3) If a substantial portion of the original paper is to be used, and if you are not the senior author, also obtain the senior author's approval.

Estimados Gilberto, María Victoria y Humberto,

Permítanme presentarme, mi nombre es Ernesto Gutiérrez Corono estudiante de Ciencias de la Computación en la Universidad de las América Puebla, México.

Estoy actualmente trabajando en my tesis de maestría intitulada "Visualización de información para entendimiento de colecciones usando regiones de Voronoi sobre mapas auto-organizados crecientes jerárquicos"

En mi capítulo 2, estoy haciendo una revisión del trabajo relacionado. Y por tanto, me gustaría su permiso para usar alguna de las figura de su artículo intitulado "ViBlioSOM: Visualización de información bibliométrica mediante el mapeo auto-organizado" e incluirlas como trabajo relacionado.

En espera de su respuesta favorable, quedo de ustedes

Ernesto

Dear Ernesto,

thank you for contacting me about permission to use images from my article. As far as I am concerned, you can use any illustration/image from that article, however, as it is published in an Elsevier journal, I had to transfer the copyrights to the publisher.

In order to get permission to (re)use anything from that article, you have to go to

<http://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S0306437909001021>

and follow the "Permissions & Reprints" link found just below the title section (but before the abstract). There you are redirected to the RightsLink page of the Copyright Clearance Center where you have to select the kind of reuse you want to do and then can request the permission from them (instructions can also be found here: <http://www.elsevier.com/authors/obtaining-permission-to-re-use-elsevier-material>). I checked it for up to five images to be used in a thesis and it seems to be free of charge, though you have to sign up for an account, which might include providing credit card information.

I hope this works for you, as there is nothing else I can do about that. Of course you can cite the article in general (and have to do so if using anything from it).

Kind regards
Simon
