Please answer the following questions frankly. Please keep this important detail in mind as you respond:

In this section, we are limiting the term "Mexican," to mean persons born AND living in Mexico while excluding those who have migrated, legally or illegally, to the United States.

What is your perception of Mexicans? Please keep the instructions above in mind.

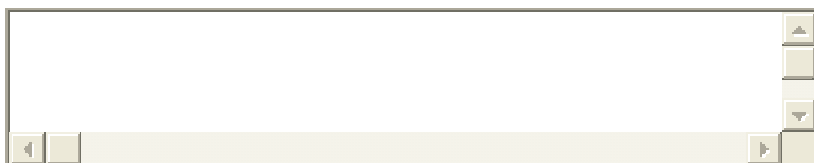

Many Mexicans* identify themselves with the Virgen de Guadalupe, the country's food, and Spanish, just as many Chicanos do. However, do you feel there is a difference between you as a self identified Chicano and/or Mexican American, and persons born in Mexico? If you feel there is a difference, such as cultural or language based, how would you explain it?

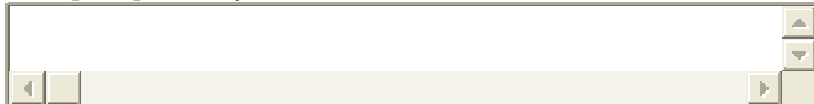

When you think about the term "Chicano," what comes to mind?

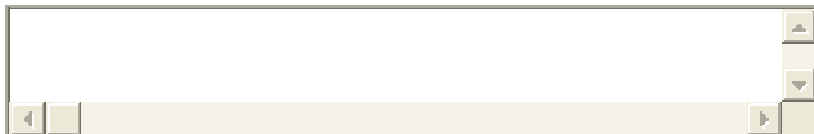

Frequently, Chicanos identify their experience in the United States with the following statement: "Chicanos do not belong in either the United States or Mexico." Do you agree and why or why not?

What perception do you think Mexicans* have of Chicanos and/or Mexican Americans?

How do you feel about working with Mexicans*, such as government officials or not-for-profits, to promote any part of the Chicano and/or Latino agenda in the United States?

In this section, we are limiting the term "Mexican," to mean persons born AND living in Mexico while excluding those who have migrated, legally or illegally, to the United States.
