Educational background in EFL (college, master, PhD.):

When answering the following questionnaire, please consider students with an upper-intermediate level.

1.- Which errors do you correct the most? (grammar, content,...)

2.- What kind of feedback do you give to your students in an upper-intermediate level? That is, what kind of comments do you write on the compositions? (code, ex. WO: word order, comments, other kinds of feedback)

3.- Who decides the errors you should focus on, you or the institution? How?

4.- Do you think that your educational background influences the way you react towards your students' errors? How?

5.- As an English language teacher and being a native speaker, what kind of errors bother you the most? What is your reaction to these errors? (anger, ...) Why?

6.- Describe the steps that you follow when you correct a composition:
