

Acknowledgments

This thesis would not have been accomplished if certain persons had not taken part in it. I would like to particularly thank my thesis director, Dr. Connie Johnson, for her support during the whole process of the realization of this thesis. I specially appreciate her assistance in writing reports, her suggestions and the materials she lent me. She shared her knowledge about the topic and always helped me to improve and what I know today about bilingual education is mostly due to her.

Also, a special thank goes to the other members of my committee, Dr. Brita Banitz and Dr. Lydia Giles. I appreciate their vast knowledge and skill in many areas and their assistance in writing reports. Dr. Banitz was also the professor of the thesis proposal course during which she helped and encouraged me a lot. She is the professor who helped me start and design the thesis.

I would like to express my gratitude to the bilingual institution which allowed me to perform all the tests and to all the pupils of the fifth and sixth grades who accepted to participate whether in the pilot or in the actual study.

Finally, I would like to thank Daniel Ramírez who contributed to the statistical analysis of the study and Julia Schmidbauer, the professional translator who translated the tests from English in the two languages needed for the study.
